

The BillionGraves Project brings people together by making genealogy records available to the public.

Volunteers use their smartphones to take GPS-encoded pictures of headstones in cemeteries, which are then uploaded to the Internet and transcribed for easy searching. The information on the headstones is then made available to the public.

BillionGraves software is free, easy to use, and it's available for desktop computers and smartphones.

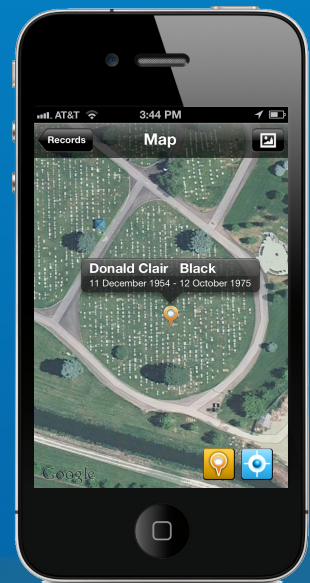

BillionGraves for Cemetery Professionals and Genealogists

-  Save Time:
BillionGraves is free to use, and the work gathering images is performed by volunteers. There is no setup required, and there is no paperwork to fill out.
-  Free:
Our application allows patrons to search for headstone images at your cemetery on their phone with a dynamic GPS map. Patrons can also view all headstone images and records online before they come to the cemetery.
-  Simple:
Our graphical interface is based on actual headstone images, and its navigation and search features are easy for users of all ages.

Why BillionGraves?

Cutting Edge Technology

BillionGraves is the fastest, easiest, and most efficient way to gather headstone data in the world. A single volunteer can collect over 500 images in just one hour, and well-organized groups can map an entire average-sized cemetery in a single afternoon.

More Efficient:

Unlike other systems, BillionGraves uses actual photographs for every single entry in our online database. BillionGraves also uses GPS technology to tag the location of each image collected, so there is no need to map out or draw a cemetery by hand.

Hassle Free:

Since BillionGraves uses regular smartphones, it's easy to learn to use without the need for training, and anyone can get involved.
